Where They Play To day. Lynchburg at Richmond.

Danville at Roanoke.

Portsmouth at Norfolk.

The Champions beat Richmond yesterday afternoon in the eleventh inning of one of the fastest and most exciting games witnessed here this sesson.

Long and Reiss were the pitchers, the former allowing ten hits, and the latter, nine clean hits, and the latter, nine clean singles.

Bentley's two-bagger, which might have been marked down to a single if. Jack Anthony had fielded it a little faster, brought Bowen over the plate in the beginning of the eleventh with the run that sent Lynchburg one peg higher up towards the place where the peanant vosts game was simply bubbling ove he game was simply the part the fielders and snap and ginger by h sides. Rooters were there in large mbers, and the Lawmakers were left-field, near the fence, and went in the newly-erected bleachers there. Be-fore Wilson could squeeze his body through the opening and get the ball into the diamond, Richmond's hig twiFler had circled the bases. Lynchburg had made one tally in the first inning and Long's home run evened things up.

Fast Double Won the Game. Another heart-disease proposition was handed to Richmond fans in the fourth inning when the bases were filled and not a run was made. Reeve started it with a scratch hit and Hicks walked. Shaffer bunt for a sucrifice, and beat the bunt out. This filled each sack and there want is a man out. It looked good the bunt out. This filled each sack and there wasn't a man out. It looked good for two or three runs. Cuddy knocked one that Cook failed to get under, but only a moment later sent one into the air that Daringer got under. No one could leave a base. Jack Anthony came to bat and there was plenty of cheering. But Jack sent a hot one down to Taringer at short, and Daringer pitched Ing. But Jack sent in het one down to Daringer at short, and Daringer pitched it to Bowen at second, killing Shaffer, and Bowen sent the sphere whizzing to Holt before Jack could reach the initial sack.

It was an exceedingly fast double, and it saved the game for Lynchburg, for therewise the score would have certainly been four to three in the ninth luning. with the Lawmakers nangling to the big end of the proposition.

But in the fifth, with two hits, a base on balls and a neat sacrifice hit, the home boys sent two men over the rubber a lead that looked good enough and got a lead that looked good enough to hold for the game. And it was good until the seventh, when the Sheemakers found Long again for three hits, the same as they had done in the first inning. The three safe swats netted them two runs and tied the matter up. The eighth, ninth and tenth innings gave goose eggs to each side, and then came the fatal sleventh.

But this time he swung viciously at three and didn't connect with anything except the atmosphere. Shaffer sent a long high one to center field and Cuddy ozoned and stopped the excitement, Lynchburg walked away with the one game.

game.
Cook's playing at third for the visitors was of the glit-edge, and he probably saved the game for his team in the ninth inning, when he blocked one from Shafer's bat that would have meant two sacks, and Shaffer would liave scored on the plays following this. But it was not intended, perhaps, that the Lawmakers should take the two games in succession.

Anthony and Hamilton did the stellar

Anthony and Hamilton did the stellar work for Richmond, both catching files that meant trouble for them.

In to-day's game Moser, Ure beforementioned wizard and invincible, will be in the box for the Shoemakers, Moser has pitched and wen twelve games in succession. To-day's tussic will be the thirteenth, and that ought to be the hooded to kill him. Laval will work for the Lawmakers, and he is in good condition, and will work to beat the mighty Moser. The game begins at 4:30 o'clock, and there will be something more than seven thousand people to witness it. The official score of yesterday's game its as follows:

Loafed and They Ran it up.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ROANOKE, VA., June S.—Roanoke won to-day's game from Danville after ten hard-fought innings by a score of 8 to 7. Smith was on the firing line for Roanoke and pitched a splendid game up to the eighth inning, when feeling that the game was won he slowed down and the visitors pounced on him, and in the eighth and ninth scored four runs, thus tieling the score. In the tenth, after two men were out, Holnz walked, McMahon singled and then Weuest, the fleet footed left-fielder, sent the ball far into the left garden for a circuit of the bases, scoring two men ahead of him and thus winning the game.

Both teams played hard ball and but for errors which were costly the score would have been much smaller. Score: ROANOKE.

Innings. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., June 8.—Score: Norfolk, 8; Portsmouth, 5; and it was easy for the Tercentennials. They made runs enough in the first two lunings to win, and after that took it, a little easy in the batting line. The Truckers' four runs In the Eleventh Inning.

The Shoemakers sent Daringer, the midget, to the bat, and he landed against one that Anthony got under. Bowen connected safely and Bentley lined one to center field. Anthony went after it as fast as he could, but the ball took a mean bound and went to the fonce. Bowen came over before the sphere could get back into the diamond. Wilson went out to center and Holt was out from Reeve to Shaffer. This ended the inning, and Richmond had a chance to the the score again.

The rooters got busy, and the grandstand was shaken with the noise. For Hicks was to lead off. Hicks previously had sent three long flies to left field, and only the worst of luck prevented any one of them from netting him a two bagger.

OF KEENE'S GREAT SYSONBY MAY STAKE WON BULLET WILL END CAREER

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Sysonby, the greatest race horse of the present decade, is going to be destroyed. Within a day or two a builet will put an end to the existence of the best horse ever owned by James R. Keene, not excepting the peerless Command. At the beginning of the season Sysonby looked as though he was going to live up to the promise he held out as a three-year-old.

Then guddenly, just as he was about to be sent to the post, he developed a skin disease that was so serious that he ments.

"If he can't race, he will be sent to the stud," said Mr. Keene recently. But lately it has developed that the disease is one that he is sure to hand to his progeny, and for that reason, to save the thoroughbreds of America, he is going to be destroyed.

FLUID LENSES.

Optical Invention Provides Cheaper Glass Crystals.

Cheaper Glass Crystals.

A report from Consul-General W. A. Rublee, at Vienna, states that afte experiments extending over a number of years a Hungarian chemist has succeeded in producing optical lenses by a simple and cheap process, that are not only quite as good as the best massive glass lenses at present used, but that can be manufactured of a size three times as great as the largest homeogeneous glass lens heretofore made.

The importance of this invention in the field of astronomy is obviously very consideable. The largest glass lens heretofore manufactured out of massive glass for astronomical purposes has a diameter of about 1.50 meters (4.82 feet), and it required several years to make it, while Lenses of smaller diameter for photographic puposes, for opea glasses, reading glasses, etc., can be produced at correspondingly smaller cost. The lens consists of a fluid substance inclosed between two unusually hard glass surfaces similar to watch crystals, in which the refractive power and other characteristic properties are so chosen that the glass surfaces not only serve to hold the fluid, but also combine with the fluid to overcome such refects as are scarcely to be avoided in ordinary lenses. It is for this reason also that the lens is achromatic.

In a Poison Factory.

"Slip on this glass mask," said the reman. "You will need it." oreman. "You will need it."
The visitor donned the uncanny mask

foreman. "You will need it."

The visitor donned the uncanny mask of glass, and the foreman led the way to the cyanide of potrassium department, "We make 1,000 tons of cyanide a year," he said. "A dose of five grains is a fatal one. Thus our annual product is enough to kill 2,00,000 people."

He opened a door and a room filled with writhing flames, dense shadows, sparks, smoke and welred figures in glass masks was revealed. In the center of the room, in a great cauldron, 100 pounds of molten cyanide of potassium bubbled and seethed. The flames glinted strangely on the glass masks.

The foreman coughed. "These fumes," he said, "are wholesome. The men, you see, are all rehust. I have known weakly chaps, working here among these strange fumes, to pick up health and strength."

In another clean, cool room the finished cyanide was stored. It looked like crystalized white sugar, good enough to eat.

"Good enough to eat," said the foreman, gravely, "Well, we have had menent it. Four men committed suicide in that way. The fumes seem to create in our men a desire to taste the drug. They fight this desire, most of them, successfully, but they feel it, the same as workers in coffee plants want to chew the coffee beans, and some feel it so strongly as to succumb."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"Filmt," said Dolliver, yawning and stretching over teward the California.

"Flint," said Dolliver, yawning and stretching over toward the California Senator, "you are going to speak to-morrow, aren't you?" "Why, no: what makes you think so?" "Well, Stone is going to speak and I thought you might him up a bit and make the sparks fix."
